From Monday September 27. to Thursday September 30. 1680.

Genoua, Sept. 12.

NOT any Ships have arrived here this Week, which makes us very barren of news; and therefore all we can at present tell you from hence is, That the Senate is not at all pleased with the advice they have, That the French are going to make an Arsenal at Antibo, as likewise at Nizza, which they apprehend to be done with no good intention towards this State. P. S. The Spanish Letters just now arrived bring the good news, That the Sickness is very much decreased in Spain, which will encourage the Merchants to go on with that Trade again.

Turin, Sept. 15. About the latter end of the last week the French Intendant came hither from Pignerol, and having staid two days here, return'd again, having managed his affairs here with so much Secrecy, that we cannot learn what he came about. The Duke of Savoy is in perfect Health again.

Hanouer, Sept. 24. This morning the Prince of Orange arriv'd here; our Duke and Prince Augustus met his Highness a German Mile from the Town, and at their coming in, the Garison received them in Arms, and all the Cannon round the Walls were discharged.

Berlin, Sept. 22. The Electors Jonrney to Hall and Maegdeburg seems to be put off for the present, because the Plague has appear'd in those Quarters. Several places in Saxony, Bohemia, and Silesia, continue to be extreamly afflicted, in some of them, the living hardly sufficing to bury the dead. The Sieur Alefeldt, who is now here in quality of Envoy Extraordinary from the King of Denmark, is leaving this Court, and going to reside at Hamburg. From Sueden we hear that the King was preparing to meet the States of his Kingdom, but that he intended, before they came together, to make a Journey into Schonen, to view the new Haven of Carelscroon, which he is resolved to fortifie, and will it's believed be of great advantage to that Kingdom.

Berlin, Sept. 25. The 12th Instant arrived here Monsieur de Bethune, in his return to France from his Embassy in Poland. The Sieur Morstein, late Ambassador from the Crown of Poland, in France, is likewise here in his way home. Our Elector has wholly put off his Journey to Maegdeburg, because of the Plague; and we understaud that his Electoral Highness has sent to invite the Prince of Orange hither. The news from Poland is, That the Commissioners of that Crown were entred into Treaty with those of the Grand Signior, for the adjusting the Limits.

Strasburg, Sept. 23. The Sovereign Chamber at Brisac hath again published an Edict, Commanding all Gentlemen and others that hold any Lands in Alsace, to do Homage to the French King, and to acknowledge him for their Sovereign, not excepting those Bailiwicks that are under the Jurisdiction of this City

Cologne, Sept. 24. Our Elector has appointed two Commissioners to determine the remaining differences between his Archbishoprick and the Country of Meurs, who tarry accordingly to meet those nominated by the Prince of Orange. From Heydelberg they write, That it's believed that the death of the late Elector will occasion great Alterations; That the Electoress Dowager, who has lived for several years at Cassel, intends to return to Heydelberg, so soon as her Son, the present Elector, is arrived there; That in the mean time preparations were making at Manheim and other places, to receive his Electoral Highness. What has been said of Prince William of Furstemberg's intending to return to France, proves a mistake, he having declared his resolution to remain here this Winter with our Elector, who seems not as yet to have any thoughts of removing to Bonne.

Cologne, Sept. 27. We have Letters from Vienna which inform us that Count Teckely, one of the Heads of the Hungarian Malecontents, seemed very desirous to bring matters to a Composure, and accordingly had made several Overtures to those employed by the Emperor in that work, but that all the other leading men among them were of another mind and very averse to all thoughts of Peace, unless they could make it upon their own Terms; and that the Earl of Middleton continued his Conferences with the Ministers there, with good success.

Hamburg, Sept. 27. The Prince of Orange, accompanied with Count Waldeck, and several other persons of Quality, is come to Zell, where the concourse of People is so great that there is no Lodging for them.

Amsterdam, Octob. 4. There have happened great disorders at Gorcum the occasion this: A publick Officer having endeavoured to secure a Baker and a Miller, for not having paid the Excise for some Corn, and they resisting his Authority, the Baker was killed; whereupon there arose so great a commotion of the Common People, that gathering together, they fell upon the house of the said Officer, and plundered it, committing several other disorders, and compelling two Companies that were in the Town, to leave it. The Duke de Villa Hermosa has resolved to send his Baggage hither from Ostend, and to Ship it here for Spain.

Hague, Octob. 1. We are informed that the States General, in the Letter they have writ to the Elector of Brandenburg on occasion of the seizure of the Spanish Man of War in Ostend Road, do make use of very pressing Arguments to induce him to restore the said Ship, and then offer their Mediation for the composing matters in an amicable manner between the Crown of Spain and his Electoral Highness;
